Independent Auditors' Report

Stockholders and Board of Directors
UCAL Holdings, Inc. and Subsidiaries
Elgin, Illinois

Opinion

We have audited the accompanying consolidated financial statements of UCAL Holdings, Inc. and Subsidiaries (collectively as the Company), which comprise the consolidated balance sheets as of March 31, 2022 and 2021, and the related consolidated statements of operations, stockholders' equity (deficit), and cash flows for the year then ended, and the related notes to the consolidated financial statements.

In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of UCAL Holdings, Inc and Subsidiaries as of March 31, 2022 and 2021, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the years then ended in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Basis for Opinion

We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditors' Responsibilities for the Audit of the Consolidated Financial Statements section of our report. We are required to be independent of UCAL Holdings, Inc. and Subsidiaries and to meet our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with the relevant ethical requirements relating to our audits. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Responsibilities of Management for Consolidated Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, and for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, management is required to evaluate whether there are conditions or events, considered in the aggregate, that raise substantial doubt about the Company's ability to continue as a going concern within one year after the date that the financial statements are available to be issued.

Auditors' Responsibilities for the Audit of the Consolidated Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance but is not absolute assurance and therefore is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control. Misstatements, including omissions, are considered material if there is a substantial likelihood that, individually or in the aggregate, they would influence the judgment made by a reasonable user based on the financial statements.

In performing an audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, we:

- Exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit.
- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, and design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks. Such procedures include examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Company's internal control. Accordingly, no such opinion is expressed.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluate the overall presentation of the financial statements.
- Conclude whether, in our judgment, there are conditions or events, considered in the aggregate, that raise substantial doubt about the Company's ability to continue as a going concern for a reasonable period of time.

We are required to communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit, significant audit findings, and certain internal control related matters that we identified during the audit.

Note 1 – Nature of Business

UCAL Holdings, Inc. (f/k/a AMTEC Precision Products, Inc.) (UCAL or the “Company”), a Delaware corporation, is a wholly owned subsidiary of UCAL Fuel Systems Ltd, a company incorporated in India. The accompanying consolidated financial statements include the consolidated results of UCAL and its wholly owned subsidiaries, UCAL Systems, Inc. (f/k/a North American Acquisition Corporation) (UCSI) and AMTEC Molded Products, Inc. (AMPI), as of March 31, 2022 and 2021 and for the years then ended. The Company’s subsidiaries are manufacturers of precision metal and plastic products and assemblies, primarily serving the automotive, truck, and capital goods industries in the United States of America. Significant intercompany accounts and transactions have been eliminated in consolidation.

UCSI, a manufacturer of precision machined components, and AMPI, a plastic injection molding company, operate out of two separate facilities located in Elgin, Illinois.

Note 2 – Significant Accounting PoliciesUse of Estimates

The preparation of consolidated financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the consolidated financial statements and the reported amounts of revenue and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Revenue Recognition

Revenue is recognized by the Company when the customer or its representatives take ownership and assume the risk of loss (generally when shipped), collection of the relevant receivable is probable, persuasive evidence of an arrangement exists, and the sale price is fixed and determinable. Provisions for sales returns and other adjustments are provided in the same period the related sales are recorded.

As the Company has the right to consideration corresponding directly with the value of performance completed to date, customer contract revenue is recognized consistent with the amount the Company has a right to invoice. The Company is therefore exercising the practical expedient not to explain transaction prices allocated to unsatisfied performance obligations at the end of the period.

Disaggregation of Revenue

Revenue from performance obligations satisfied at a point in time consists of sales of metal and plastic products and assemblies. These goods are sold to manufacturers. Revenue from performance obligations satisfied over time are limited and considered immaterial. These services are sold to the same manufacturers.

Contract Balances

Contract assets include accounts receivables. Contract liabilities include deferred revenue. Contract assets and contract liabilities were as follows for the years ended March 31:

	2020	2021	2022
Contract assets	$ 4,002,291	$ 5,680,971	$ 4,655,658
Contract liabilities	32,251	50,758	50,758

See independent auditors’ report.

Note 2 – Significant Accounting Policies (Continued)Performance Obligations

For performance obligations related to the sale of metal and plastic products and assemblies, control transfers to the customer at a point in time. The Company's principal terms of sale are FOB Shipping Point and the Company transfers control and records revenue for product sales either upon shipment to the customer. The payment terms and conditions in customer contracts vary from 30-90 days from transfer of control.

The Company does not have any significant financing components as payment is received at or shortly after the point of sale.

The nature of the Company's business gives rise to variable consideration, including returns that generally decrease the transaction price which reduces revenue. These variable amounts are generally product returns or price concessions. Variable consideration is estimated at the most likely amount that is expected to be returned.

Cash

The Company maintains cash balances in financial institutions that at times may exceed federally insured limits. The Company has not experienced any losses in such accounts and believes it is not exposed to any significant credit risk on cash.

Accounts Receivable

The opening balance of receivables for the year ended March 31, 2021 was $3,634,736. Accounts receivable are stated at net invoice amounts. An allowance for doubtful accounts is established based on a specific assessment of all invoices that remain unpaid following normal customer payment periods. In addition, a general valuation allowance is established for other accounts receivable based on historical loss experience. A receivable is considered past due if any portion of the receivable balance is outstanding more than 30 days after the due date. All amounts deemed to be uncollectible are charged against the allowance for doubtful accounts in the period that determination is made. The allowance for doubtful accounts on accounts receivable balances was $179,614 and $202,559 as of March 31, 2022 and 2021, respectively. Recoveries of receivables previously written off are offset against bad debt expense when payments are received.

Inventory

Inventory is stated at the lower of cost or net realizable value (NRV), with NRV based on selling prices in the ordinary course of business, less costs of completion, disposal, and transportation. Inventory cost is determined on the first-in, first-out (FIFO) method. Work in progress and finished goods include the cost of materials, labor, and manufacturing overhead. Perishable tooling is recorded in inventory when purchased and charged to cost of goods sold when consumed in the manufacturing of the Company's products.

Property and Equipment

Property and equipment are recorded at cost. Additions, major renewals, replacements, and betterments are capitalized; maintenance and repairs are charged to expense when incurred. Depreciation is computed primarily by using the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of the respective assets. Leasehold improvements are amortized over the term of the respective lease or useful life, whichever is less. Amortization of the assets under capital lease is computed using the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives and is included in depreciation and amortization expense.

See independent auditors' report.

Note 2 – Significant Accounting Policies (Continued)Debt Issuance Cost

Debt issuance costs were incurred by the Company in connection with obtaining the debt to finance the purchase of capital assets. These costs are recorded as a reduction in the recorded balance of the outstanding debt. The costs are amortized over the term of the related debt and reported as a component of interest expense.

Impairment of Long-lived Assets

The Company reviews the recoverability of long-lived assets, including buildings, equipment, internal use software, and other intangible assets, when events or changes in circumstances occur that indicate the carrying value of the asset may not be recoverable. The assessment of possible impairment is based on the ability to recover the carrying value of the asset from the expected future pretax cash flows (undiscounted and without interest charges) of the related operations. If these cash flows are less than the carrying value of such asset, an impairment loss is recognized for the difference between estimated fair value and carrying value. The measurement of impairment requires management to make estimates of these cash flows related to long-lived assets, as well as other fair value determinations.

Checks Issued in Excess of Bank Balance

By arrangement with its financial institution, collected funds are adjusted daily between the Company's checking account and the available line of credit. As a result of the Company's cash management system, checks issued but not presented for payment may create a negative book balance even though the bank balance remains positive. Such negative cash balances are classified in current liabilities.

Credit Risk, Major Customers and Suppliers, and Concentration

Sales are predominately to companies in the automobile industry located principally in the midwestern United States. The Company extends trade credits to its customers on terms that are generally practiced in the industry. One major customer accounted for approximately 78 percent of accounts receivable and 83 percent of net sales as of and for the year ended March 31, 2022. Two major customers accounted for approximately 92 percent of accounts receivable and 87 percent of net sales as of and for the year ended March 31, 2021.

Shipping and Handling Costs

Shipping and handling costs charged to customers are included in net sales. Shipping and handling costs incurred by the Company are included in cost of goods sold.

Income Taxes

Income taxes are provided for the tax effects of transactions reported in the consolidated financial statements and consist of taxes currently due plus deferred taxes. Deferred taxes are recognized for the tax effect of temporary differences between the basis of certain assets and liabilities for financial and income tax reporting purposes and for net operating loss carryforwards. Deferred taxes are primarily due to the differences in the basis of fixed assets resulting from the use of accelerated depreciation for income tax purposes, loss carryforwards, and certain reserves (inventory and receivables). The deferred tax assets and liabilities represent the future tax return consequences of those temporary differences, which will either be taxable or deductible when the assets or liabilities are recovered or settled. Deferred tax assets are reduced by a valuation allowance when the probability of not being able to realize these assets is more likely than not.

Note 2 – Significant Accounting Policies (Continued)Upcoming Accounting Pronouncements

In February 2016, the FASB issued ASU No. 2016-02, Leases, which will supersede the current lease requirements in ASC 840. The ASU requires lessees to recognize a right-of-use asset and related lease liability for all leases, with a limited exception for short-term leases. Leases will be classified as either finance or operating, with the classification affecting the pattern of expense recognition in the statement of operations. Currently, leases are classified as either capital or operating, with only capital leases recognized on the balance sheet. The reporting of lease-related expenses in the statements of operations and cash flows will be generally consistent with the current guidance. The new lease guidance will be effective for the Company's year ending March 31, 2023 and will be applied using a modified retrospective transition method to either the beginning of the earliest period presented or the beginning of the year of adoption. The Company is still evaluating which method it will apply. The new lease standard is expected to have a significant effect on the Company's consolidated financial statements as a result of the leases for operating facilities described in Note 8, which are classified as operating leases. The leases are expected to increase long-term assets and liabilities upon adoption. The effects on the results of operations are not expected to be significant, as recognition and measurement of expenses and cash flows for leases will be substantially the same under the new standard.

The loan is guaranteed by the Small Business Administration. The Company has applied for forgiveness under the Paycheck Protection program with their lender and the Small Business Administration ("SBA") and forgiveness has been obtained as of March 28, 2022.
